2 Black Coffee: 1 40:40 More than half the time, I did an OKie review. With this one, I still did one. This game is awesome. This game is so awesome, that this game is not only rated by me but by Luchador himself. The present invention relates to an automatic focusing apparatus of a video camera, etc. A conventional automatic focusing apparatus includes a beam emission-type laser beam receiving device including a pair of laser beam receiving elements. A laser beam receiving distance is measured on the basis of the output voltages from the two laser beam receiving elements. A laser beam receiving angle is measured on the basis of a direction of a beam reflected by a subject (for example, see U.S. Pat. No. 4,922,194). According to the conventional automatic focusing apparatus, however, the laser beam receiving distance and the laser beam receiving angle vary greatly on the basis of the specularity of a subject such as a face of a human. When, for example, the subject is a face of a person, the specularity of the subject is not constant, and the laser beam receiving distance and the laser beam receiving angle vary greatly. On the other hand, the intensity of a reflected light beam from a subject may fluctuate largely on the basis of the surface state of the subject. When the surface state of the subject varies, therefore, the intensity of a reflected light beam from the subject fluctuates largely. The intensity of a reflected light beam is a relative intensity of a laser beam. Therefore, when the intensity of a reflected light beam fluctuates largely, the laser beam receiving distance fluctuates largely. As a result, a distance which is measured as a laser beam receiving distance varies largely. In this manner, when the laser beam receiving distance and the laser beam receiving angle vary greatly, the conventional automatic focusing apparatus is incapable of measuring a distance which is constant. Therefore, the conventional automatic focusing apparatus cannot perform a distance measurement with high accuracy. Q: How do I safely handle sleeping bags that have been stored for months? In my local woodshop there's an old chest that was made for storing/handling bags of sawdust. It has a lid that can be screwed shut for added security and a mesh bottom so the bags can be aired out to dry. But I wouldn't feel safe stowing a sleeping bag inside. I could leave the bag unzipped, but since it's aging Radio Shack Puts Wham-O To The Test Worthington, Pa., May 18, 2003—After spending 20 years in the hardware business, Phyllis Brown felt sure that her purchases at Radio Shack stores were well-informed. But for the past couple of years, she discovered, her choices were leading her “down a path of shame.” Steeped in the fine art of electronics, the 72-year-old home care worker thoroughly understood the multiple shades of gray between vacuum-tube amps and fancy-schmancy diodes. But when she visited several Radio Shack locations outside her home town, she noticed that “everything was a simple black or beige box.” Those were the only choices, and they couldn’t be right. All she could see were the arbitrary matchings of the dual-function price points and shelf-capping graphics. “There was often a price difference of $20 or $40 between a product that was made of inferior materials and one that was made of good materials,” explains Brown. “So I just kept on asking, ‘What, you priced a box for one thing and then just made a price change and changed a box to make it a different shape and size?’” Like many other consumers, she was dismayed to discover that electronics giant Radio Shack had used its extensive catalog and vast promotion spend to drive down the cost of its electronics to the point where price differences are almost always discretionary. Instead of the consumer having choices among boxes that clearly spelled out their differences, she says, stores were hiding those differences. “We’re not going to force you to walk into a Radio Shack and spend some time to examine the products,” one employee told Brown. “I don’t want to be a slave to you. You are the consumer, after all.” For many customers, it’s not that they were being bullied by sketchy pricing tactics. They were victims of a good-old-boy operation that was cavalier about its role in hyping the ebb and flow of its own products’ life cycles. Brown had often driven 18 hours from her home in Pennsylvania to visit Radio Shack’s headquarters in Worthington, Pa., and

' , :}, { , :}, Description: The iPhone XR is basically a small refresh of the iPhone X, with even shorter side bezels, a 5.8-inch OLED display and all the other iPhone X features which sets it apart. What I like about it is that it's a generally faster, cheaper and smaller iPhone and also comes with the Apple-focused Animoji and Memoji. On the flip side, this one lacks the Face ID facial recognition. The iPhone XR is competing with the recently launched iPhone XS and iPhone XS Max (both starting at $999): while the XR offers a more polished product at a smaller price (it's basically free with a monthly data plan), it lacks some handy features found in the other models. So it's a better phone for a price that's only a bit more — especially for Android and Samsung Galaxy users.Q: Managing Javascript/ActionScript Libraries with Git I'm using the as3commons libarry for Javascript and have come across the 3 following scenarios that I haven't come across a satisfying solution yet for. Scenario 1) Modify a class name in a library that someone else is using. Someone else modified the class in an open source project and we are receiving a stack trace from their project because of the breaking changes. Scenario 2) Perfom a performance tweak to a library, such as pulling in classes that are not in use currently. Someone opens a ticket to sort this out, but they have no idea what classes are in use or what classes they are actually importing -- just that they need it fixed. Scenario 3) Change a class name that was a typing error that should be fixed, but not in the project I'm working on. I don't work on someone else's code or libraries, so I don't necessarily want to comment out that
