Q: How to retrieve selected cell data from a `TableLayoutPanel`? I've got a `TableLayoutPanel` that I add cells to dynamically in code, and they are all the same size (let's say 10px). How can I easily retrieve the data in a selected cell? I was thinking of iterating through all cells and comparing their `Text` property to a given `Text`, but I feel like there must be a more reliable way. A: You could use the `GetCell` or `GetCellAt` method of the `TableLayoutPanel` var `selectedCell = tableLayoutPanel1.GetCellAt(10, 10);`

To get the text you need to cast the value to a string: `string text = (string)tableLayoutPanel1.GetCellAt(10, 10).Text`; Also, you need to check that the `tableLayoutPanel` contains what you expect (the example below simply checks that both controls exist in the form): `if (tableLayoutPanel1 != null && tableLayoutPanel1.Controls.Count > 0) { var selectedCell = tableLayoutPanel1.Controls[0].Controls[0].Controls[0]; if (selectedCell != null) { string text = (string)selectedCell.Text; } }`

The invention relates to a socket, comprising a mounting part, a contact housing provided on the mounting part, and contact elements arranged within the contact housing. The contact housing has a plurality of free contacts associated with the contact elements. Each contact element has two contact portions located on opposite sides of a wall, each contact portion being insertable into the free contacts. The free contacts are directly electrically connected to the contact portions via electrically conducting means. Such a socket is known from German Patent No. 39 19 707 A1. In the socket, a contact pin is secured in a contact housing of a socket body. The contact pin is provided with a L-shaped contact portion. The contact portion is provided with a pin tip which is inserted into a free contact slot of a contact housing in the socket body. The two arms of the L-shaped contact portion are provided with a socket edge on which is provided a contact pressure for pressing the contact pin against the contact housing. It is an object of the invention to provide a socket in which the have custom module in Magento 2.3. I am trying to customize the grid view to display posts with one of the attribute of post. In `app/code/Test/Custommodule/view/frontend/layout/custommodule_post_listing.xml` I have added below line of code. Then I have created a `custom_post_list.phtml` in custom module. What I want to achieve is when post has attribute `added_by`, then show the added by name. I have gone through the below links. A: You don't need to extend the template. You need to override the `Grid.php` file in `test/Custommodule/view/frontend/layout/grid.xml` and add the column you want.
